Kentucky Windage

(By P. W.)

The 10th Festival is over and all the gear is being stored for the winter, but elsewhere around town this week, people are busy on other projects. Samples:

— Work is moving right along on the new Leader Store building next to City Drug on Lake Street, and judging from the brickwork on the striking rear (Mears Street) entrance, it's going to be a beauty;

— At the Fulton city council meeting Monday night, it was disclosed that there are plans afoot to move the E. W. James Supermarket across the street to a location on the Kentucky side; a move prompted by the fact that soon there will be no tax on Kentucky groceries;

— "Anthony's" new shop, located in the old Evans Drug Store building on Lake Street, is readying for an opening right away;

— The "Clothesline" opened last weekend in a snazzy new decor at the old Hobby House location in South Fulton (between Sears and Hirsch's), and business is already humming right along;

— Practically out of nowhere, a big housing project in South Fulton has quietly mushroomed into unbelievable proportions (see picture elsewhere);

— Mayor Nelson Tripp of Fulton continues on his persistent campaign to get a new city hall, currently eyeing the old Opera house across the street, which is available;

— Schools are starting, the stores are busy generally;

Getting Around?

Does the Banana Festival attract many visitors to the community for the three-day event?

The question was answered in no uncertain terms when Dorothy Douglas handed me a registration book that they kept at the Indian relics window display at Graham Furniture Company.

The exhibit drew viewers from 47 cities, 10 states and two foreign countries. And that's just ONE of the many attractions that Festival visitors enjoyed.

Good Ole Politics

I've been involved with bananas and international relations for so many weeks I've almost forgotten what pleasure it is to talk and analyze the state and national political scene.

In between the hectic hours of staging the Tenth Annual International Banana Festival I did take a little time to read the headlines, and oftentimes the reports of the broadcast and print commentators, but not enough to determine what looks like a trend in the Kentucky senatorial races and of course the national presidential races.

I've got a lot of catching up to do in this area, but I thought you might be interested in a funny little incident that happened while the Festival was in full swing.

His Name's Mac

Paul and I were driving home one evening and parked the car behind the house as we usually do. On walking in the house with my mind on a thousand things, I felt a cuddly little animal brush against my legs.

Looking down I saw that it was a hound dog of dubious heritage. I asked Paul when and where we got a dog. Whereupon he said: "I found him wandering around the streets last week and I just put him in the car and brought him home."

I wasn't offended at all, because I like some kind of mutt around the premises if for no other reason than to eat the table scraps.

Still absentmindedly I asked Paul if Todd (our grandson) had named the dog, since the little fellow has a couple of his own and has given them the oddest names.

Todd had not named the dog, but Paul had, and he says the cur's name is "Mac." Asking him where he got such a name, since there's not an Irishman around our house, Paul explained.

ABOUT 65% COMPLETE: The new US 45-E by-pass around South Fulton is getting its first course of gravel base this week (above) and hopefully will be opened before December 1st. Work on the project was termed "slow", highway department inspectors told The News this week. Above view shows a portion of the giant fill across the bottoms, with the completed concrete bridge over the IC tracks in the distance.

South Fulton Votes Next Tuesday While City Enjoys Great Progress

Winston, Blaylock Out Front In Race With Four Candidates

by Jo Westpheling
a News Analysis

South Fulton residents go to the polls next Tuesday, September 5 to elect two commissioners from a list of four candidates on the ballot.

The candidates are: Kindred Winston, a banker and educator; Paul Blaylock, an industrial supervisor; Moulton Gambill, operator of a therapy clinic; and John Reeks, a retired railroad employee and vending machine operator.

The two commissioners elected next Tuesday will replace Dr. Dan Crocker, who has served as Mayor and Jim Owens, as commissioner.

As South Fultonians go to the polls next week they do so at a time when the Tennessee community enjoys an era of the greatest progress and development in the history of the city. It has all happened within the past four years under the direction of a city administration that has geared its sights towards making South Fulton one of the fastest growing towns in West Tennessee and West Kentucky.

And with it all—according to the Tennessee Comptroller's office in Nashville—the City of South Fulton HAS ONE OF THE LOWEST TAX RATES, if not THE LOWEST TAX RATE of any municipality in the State of Tennessee.

"It didn't just happen," Dr. Crocker told the News on Wednesday. "We've been able to grow and progress with the full cooperation of most of the good citizens of South Fulton, in both the white and Black communities, who have joined us in literally putting South Fulton 'on the map'." Dr. Crocker said, Commissioner Owens, whose term is expiring, and who like Dr. Crocker is not seeking reelection said: "It has been a pleasure for me to work with the people of South Fulton who wanted to see South Fulton grow and did something about it by joining with their city officials in bringing about efficiency, high respect, and progress in their city government."

For the first time in many recent South Fulton city elections the Black community seems almost solidly behind a continuation of the progress being made in South Fulton as the result of efforts made by their city administration during the past four years.

"We've been promised a lot of improvements in our residential sections by candidates for city offices, but this is the first time that we can see some real progress," a prominent member of the Black community told the News.

"Willow Drive, the old and the new sections, are under contract for great improvements," he said. "Also an opportunity to live in good and modern houses, and our street program, undertaken completely by local financing is something we've been promised for many years, and now it's being accomplished," he continued.

Front-runners in the city election to continue the policies of a progressive administration are Mr. Winston, and Mr. Blaylock.

Both are well known in South Fulton; both have taken active roles in civic, cultural and religious affairs and both have indicated that the "old politics" of South Fulton have no place in the present form of city government.

City Manager Tom Fullerton, an expert in his field, viewed his six months at the helm of South Fulton's municipal affairs as being "one of the most rewarding jobs I've ever held."

"It's rewarding," he said, "because I have been able to see first hand the tremendous amount of work done by this administration to make city government a going business without petty politics interfering."

"The people of South Fulton have demonstrated that they want good government, that they want their tax monies to be spent cautiously and they want proven results as a result of those monies spent," he continued.

City Commissioners are elected every two years in South Fulton. Two commissioners are elected every two years, and one commissioner elected the next two years.

The hold-over commissioner now serving is Leroy Sawyer, an executive at the Fulton Bank, who was named in a special election to fulfill the unexpired term of M. M. Matlock, who resigned.

Voting booths will be at the City Hall and the telephone office on Central Avenue.

FHS Announces Homecoming Candidates

The four candidates for Homecoming Queen at Fulton High School are announced today, as follows:

Senior: Ann Fenwick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fenwick;

Junior: Jan Pulley, daughter of Mrs. Alfreda Pulley;

Sophomore: Susan Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Moore;

Freshman: Downa Braswell, daughter of Mrs. Gerri Braswell.

The selection of the homecoming queen will follow the traditional system of awarding the title to the representative of the class that has the highest magazine subscriptions sales. Solicitation will begin immediately and the representative of the winning class will be crowned at Homecoming game here September 29th.

Principal Bobby Snider told The News Wednesday that 1972 enrollment at Fulton High School is up 15 from last fall, with 220 registered. Enrollment last fall was 205, and during the spring semester this year there were 198 in high school.

HOME FROM HOSPITAL

The Rev. Bill Boyd has returned home from the Baptist Hospital and is improving but still unable to have visitors. All cards and other remembrances sent while he was hospitalized in Memphis are appreciated.

TO BE IN FULTON

Mr. Glynn B. Rice, Sr. of Phoenix, Arizona, son of Mrs. Myrtle Rice, 406 Second Street, is expected to be in Fulton on Saturday for a short visit. He is the father of Karen, G. B. and Rosemary Rice.

Mrs. Bolin Is Outstanding Young Woman

Mrs. Joseph Bolin of Clinton, the former Miss Sandra Stokes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stokes Jr., 406 Catlett, has recently been selected as an Outstanding Young Woman of America for 1972.

Now in its eighth year, the Outstanding Young Women of America Program recognizes women between the ages of 21 and 35 for their contribution to the betterment of their communities, professions and country.

Over 6,000 women are nominated annually for this honor by civic organizations, churches and college alumni associations throughout the United States. Mrs. Bolin was added to this year's list of honorees along with Mrs. Wallace Shankle.

Beech Grove Community Recalls Interesting Folklore

By Carol Major

While driving down the Brownsville Road, one might easily sense the beauty of the countryside but not so easily realize the fascinating and interesting history of the Beech Grove Cemetery, the Beech Grove School and the Beech Grove Methodist Church. Not only is their origin interesting but the people who were instrumental in the foundation of these public services should be remembered.

The forefathers of Mrs. R. A. Watson deeded the land for the Beech Grove cemetery which stands between the Beech Grove Methodist Church and the Watson home.

The man who deeded the land for the construction of both the Watson School and the Beech Grove Methodist Church was born on May 22, 1840. A community builder of over one hundred and thirty years ago, William Russell Watson willingly gave a portion of his land to the Fulton County Educational System as long as the school remained a learning resource. Upon the termination of this cause, Watson instructed that the land be returned to the Watson Estate.

William Russell (Russ) Watson was an organizer, charter member and deacon of the David Chapel. In 1912, the same year that Russ died, the Beech Grove Methodist Church was built and is still an active edifice. Several Watson ancestors are members of both the Beech Grove Methodist Church and the David Chapel.

Russ Watson lived across the Brownsville Road from the schoolhouse in the original Watson son home where he reared his nephew, R. A. Watson. When R. A., born July 25, 1871, was old enough to attend school, he packed his book satchel and ran across the street for an eight-hour-long school day of eight different subjects.

During the day, if a child scratched his leg, was hit on the head by a ball, or could find any physical excuse whatsoever for first aid, he was excused to run across the road to the Watson home where Mrs. R. A. Watson, formerly Mamie Branham and student at the Watson school, would care for his injury. Before sending the child back to school, she would give him a handful of her famous "tea cakes" for which many people, now scattered far and near, remember Mrs. Watson.

Many of the teachers of the Watson School boarded at the Watson home. R. A. Watson was a trustee of the school.

It was at the Little Watson School where Mamie Branham and R. A. Watson, as pictured, first met and several years later, married. They resided in the Watson home and had two sons and two daughters. Both sons of the Watsons, Harry Lee and Hollis are deceased. The two daughters, Mrs. Willie (Pearl) Thomas and Mrs. L. W. (Hazel) Burcham both live on the Brownsville Road.

Mrs. Thomas resides in the home of Josie Smith, the niece of Russ Watson whom he raised with R. A. Watson. She has six children, five of whom attended the Watson School. They are: Noland Thomas of Detroit, Michigan, Helen McDaniel of Union City, Tennessee, Lakie Morgan of Belfontaine, Ohio and Percy Thomas of Hickman,

The youngest son, Gaylon Thomas, of Hickman attended Western Elementary School.

Mrs. Burcham lives at "Sweet Gum View" on the Brownsville Road. Her two children, Mrs. Dee (Mary Eva) Langford and Mrs. Raymond (Rosie Lee) Forsythe are both residents of Hickman and attended the Watson School.

Two sons of the late Harry Lee Watson were also educated at the Watson School. They are Jackie Lee Watson of Michigan and Paul Edward Watson of Florida.

Over the years, the Watson School has come to be known as the Beech Grove School. This was a familiar name in the community and therefore, became the name of the old Watson School. It served not only as a place of learning for the young people but also as a center for many organized activities. Such happenings as box suppers, quilting bees and religious events frequently took place in the school. It also served as a home for refugees at times when the lower bottom land was severely flooded.

Among other members of the Langford family who attended the school were three rural mail carriers, Lewis Langford, Bennett Langford and Herbert Langford. Lewis is the father of Dee Langford, the present County Court Clerk, who also was schooled there.

Among the many teachers who began their careers at the Beech Grove School was the late Joe Barnett. He was the first schoolteacher of Mrs. Mary Eva Langford. He later served as principal in and superintendent

NOTEBOOK

"I named him 'Mac' after George McGovern," he said. "The dog was just wandering around town, didn't know where he was going, and didn't look like he was going to find out where he was going, so I just named him Mac!"

No Disrespect

The dog story is not meant to cast any aspersions on the Democratic nominee for President, but it does seem that Senator McGovern is having some difficulty firming up his platform, doesn't he?

Actually, McGovern and his poor image as a Leftist and a radical, is a result of the modern-day candidate's thinking that it is imperative to be surrounded by a youthful staff, and youthful advisors, and to adhere to youthful philosophies in order to attract the young voters who are bustin' out all over since 25,000,000 more 18-year old persons will be added to the national rolls this year.

Just think about the record for a minute.

Senator Edmund Muskie, the quiet, effective front-runner at the beginning of the presidential primaries was doing quite well until his "Kiddie Korps" of counselors started advising him to expound on all those zany subject that some young people want to support.

Muskie's philosophy just wasn't patterned after that sort of stuff, which was completely incompatible with his stature, his experience and his honest views.

Even Hubert Humphrey, the old pro, the darling of labor, tried this "appeal to youth kick" with just about as much success as Muskie. The faster they campaigned with that pitch, the more behind they got, and did!

At their respective ages, barefeet, long hair and jeans just wasn't their bag.

The Combs Race

In general terms I think the same strategy may have contributed to the defeat of former Governor Bert Combs last year. I recall several news releases coming out of Combs' headquarters calling attention to the average age of Combs' campaign staff, which was something like 25 years old, or sumpin'.

The intent of course was to understate the difference in the ages of Combs and his principal opponent Wendell Ford, who was somewhat younger than the former governor.

Actually, the strategy may have alienated some of the young voters in both campaigns for almost everybody knew that the wisest and shrewdest "old pros" in Kentucky politics were calling the shots in both campaigns.

Combs' "accent on youth" was out of character with the handsome, distinguished, scholarly former governor and former Federal judge, who probably has forgotten more political strategy than many of these young people will ever learn in a long lifetime.

The Youth Kick

I don't exactly know how I got off on this "youth kick" except that I am reminded of the participants in the recent National Democratic Convention in Miami Beach.

While I was awed at the number of delegates slightly over 18, I couldn't help but realize that these youngsters had to be ELECTED to get there, and to get elected took some long, long hours of knocking on doors, organizing, distributing literature and all the other things that go with getting elected.

I have yet to find a person in this area who admits to being wholeheartedly, or even luke-warm for McGovern, but of course many, many Democrats will vote the straight Democratic ticket this fall.

Kentucky is a "swing" state when it comes to party politics, as is evidenced by the increasing number of Republicans being elected to office. Democratic registration in Kentucky is 3 to 1 over the Republicans.

Nationally, especially in the highly populated urban areas McGovern has great support, if for no other reason than to relate the enthusiasm and energy of the young delegates at Miami Beach for McGovern and getting votes for McGovern in November.

Under no circumstances do I want you to construe my remarks about youthful activists as being ridicule.

I admire 'em for their spunk and dedication. But politicians who try to woo the young voters under false pretenses are fooling only themselves, not the young people.

Billy Yates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Yates of Fulton is something of a hero to his family and friends in Fulton. Stationed in Hawaii he was selected to go on the reception committee of the Navy when Secretary of State Dean Acheson visited that post. Billy's commanding officer was commenting on Billy's ability as a seaman when the Secretary said: "Why not let that boy go along with us."

The request was refused when Billy's commanding officer told of the need for Billy's presence in his own company.

I love the sea, but it doesn't make me less afraid of it.

I love you, but I'm not always sure of what you are, how you feel.

I'd like to crawl behind your eyes sometimes and see me the way you do.

Or crawl through your mouth and sit on every word that comes up from your throat.

Maybe I could be sure then, maybe I could know.

If it is, I'd hide beneath your frown and worry when you laugh too loud.

The Time of Noon

When you're alone at night and the old memories you've called back to help you do the things that would put you to sleep don't work anymore.

And even the aphrodisiac of magazines doesn't help.

There's no place to go, no one to call, Try thinking about the sun.

The way it catches in the trees sometimes, the way it follows you in a car,

The way it plays in the hair of strangers on the beach.

The way it runs behind the rudder of a boat, or it climbs the hill with you, And pushes you from the bed in the morning.

Think about the time of noon when everybody's just a little crazy.

Remember... the big cliffs are wide and steep

And you'll grow tired climbing them, so go slow.

The sun is years away from going down, and we've got to watch it every mile.

There won't be any moon tonight.

And this is the time of noon.

WINDAGE

Terrace restaurant still rests its blackened bones on the hilltop in South Fulton, with nary a piece of new lumber around to indicate that any rebuilding is contemplated yet.

The IC and GM&O Railroads have been officially running as a consolidated line for a little over a week, but what benefits, if any, will come to Fulton still seem to be anybody's guess. It would seem to me that Fulton, being the major "funnel" on the whole north-south system, would stand to be improved as a rail center, and I hope it will. But conjecture at this point about getting that new $20-million dollar classification yard, and a possible division office, and a lot of other goodies, is still regarded as just idle gossip. As one cynic put it this week: "If they'd just give us separate men's and women's rest rooms where we work, I'd feel like we were making progress." Let's just hope for the best and figure that right now it's too early to tell.

And while on the brief subject of railroading, the Memphis Commercial Appeal carried quite a blistering article on AMTRAK last weekend, calling the year-old government operation a dismal shadow of any hoped-for return to comfortable passenger accommodations by rail. The article cited persistent late schedules, air-conditioned cars that don't work and lack of many little conveniences for passengers; it hinted that more thorough servicing should be provided in the middle of the run.

Lost driver, coming down the parkway and driving up to the toll gate:

"Where is I?"

Courteous but exasperated toll-taker, who has had the same question put to him a hundred times in the past week:

"You is right here with me"

If you didn't happen to see these stories over the weekend, I thought you might be interested:

Down in Brazil, bee-keepers, trying to improve the quality and quantity of honey, imported some queen bees from Africa. The new queens were from a fierce, hard-working strain of African bees; the Brazilian bees were a lazy, easy-going type. The Brazilians reasoned that mating the two strains was just what they needed to increase their honey production.

But what happened? The succeeding generations of the new family have turned out to be not only good honey producers, but so fierce that they will attack and kill humans or animals that venture too close to their swarming-place. With the new swarms running wild and multiplying rapidly, the problem is a lot of concern to Brazilians... and moving northward at the rate of about 200 miles a year.

And over in Italy, in recent years, they have had a problem with increasing number of poisonous snakes. The situation has become so alarming that the government put a bounty on poisonous snakes: 80 cents for every snake carcass brought in.

Enterprising rural residents started going out and capturing the snakes, and instead of killing them began raising them for a nice profit.

Officials, seeing that they were being outsmarted, decided to bring back the porcupine, which in Italy is a traditional enemy of snakes. So after the porcupine program was merrily on its way, the word got out that roast porcupine was something of a delicacy, and the fate of the porcupine project was sealed.

Then the mayor of a beach resort remembered that the Italian turkey, with its sharp beak, likes to peck snakes to death, so he ordered 300 turkeys for his area and enacted laws to protect them.

But the order didn't specify the intended use of the turkeys, so when they arrived all had their beaks clipped to prevent damaging one another in their cages. Worthless as snake-fighters, they are being fattened up for Thanksgiving and another shipment, unclipped, was ordered.

Concludes the report, "travelers in the area these days report the strange sight of a flock of gobblers waddling through the countryside, their handler waving a red flag to warn away tourists."

Nancy DeMyer, Stephen Vaughn Wed In Candlelight Ceremony

In an impressive candlelight ceremony at four o'clock in the afternoon, Saturday, August 12, Miss Nancy Elizabeth DeMyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Scott DeMyer of Hickman, and Stephen Ray Vaughn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Vaughn of Fairfield, Illinois, were united in marriage in the sanctuary of the First Christian Church in Fulton, Kentucky.

The Reverend Henry Hanna, minister of the First Christian Church of Radcliffe, Kentucky, officiated at the ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Gima Lawrence of Benton, Kentucky, organist and Mrs. Larry Lewis of Clinton, vocalist. Selections included "Theme From Love Story" and "Wither Thou Goest" preceding the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt for the benediction.

The bridal party assembled before the chancel where a basket of white Fuji mums, white carnations and daisies hung in the center arch. They were flanked on either side by sixteen white standards which held white tapers and which formed the background for the marriage vows.

A white satin prie dieu where the couple knelt was placed in the center. Spiral candelabras formed the altar as seven branched candelabras tied with huckleberry, white Fuji mums and carnations stood on each side arch above the standards of huckleberry candles and palms on floor level. The long, center, white-carpeted aisle was lighted with hurricane style lamps twined with garlands of boxwood.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her father and mother, chose for her wedding a formal gown of white silk organzine over bridal taffeta. The natural waistline was defined with a lace and ribbon accent and dainty French tucks were featured on the fitted bodice, with a Victorian neckline and long bishop sleeves. The Cameo cuffs were elegantly detailed with an applique of the lace motifs. A voluminous skirt was bias cut and flowed gracefully into a demi-court train as she descended the aisle.

The bride's headress was a floor-length mantilla, designed especially for her gown, caught to a Juliet crown fashioned of lace motifs. The entire mantilla was bordered in the lace design featured on her gown. She carried a bridal bouquet fashioned in French colonial style made of white, pink and yellow sweet heart roses centered with a corsage of the same.

Assisting in serving were Miss Nancy Jones of Murray, Miss Gima Moss, Hickman, Miss Carol Parker and Miss Nancy Pollard, both of Hopkinsville, Kentucky. Miss Carol Cardwell, Hickman, kept the guest register. Each of them was presented a white carnation corsage.

For traveling the bride chose a yellow knit dress with white accessories and a corsage of white, pink and yellow sweet heart roses.

The couple are now making their home in Cherokee Village, Arkansas.

Miss Newton Inspiration For Bridal Tea

Miss Amanda Newton, whose marriage to Terry Meadows will be solemnized on Sunday, August 27, was the inspiration for a bridal tea at the South Fulton Baptist Church Sunday afternoon, August 13.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Garrett Kimbel, Mrs. Gene Elliott and Mrs. Pearl Newton.

Miss Newton was attired in a red and white knit dress accented with a navy belt. She received guests with her mother, Mrs. Harold D. Newton, and Mrs. E. C. Meadows, mother of the groom-elect. Each wore a carnation corsage, accenting their attire.

Miss Camilla Elliott presided at the guest register. Misses Jackie Hollie, Deborah Hodges and Janet Taylor served cake, punch, mints and nuts from the bridal table.

The table was covered with a white linen cloth overlaid with hot pink lace net. The centerpiece was a beautiful arrangement of pink roses adorned on each side with pink candles.

Approximately 40 guests attended and sent gifts between the hours of two and four in the afternoon.

RETURN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. George Moore recently returned from Eureka Springs, Arkansas where they attended the Passion Play. They also visited Mrs. Moore's sister, Mrs. Pettus Kincannon in Fort Smith.

LEAVES FOR SCHOOL

Miss Owens Feted With Bridal Tea

Miss Sheila Owens, whose marriage to Robert Brown of Clinton was solemnized on Saturday, August 19, was complimented at a bridal tea on Thursday, August 17, at the home of Mrs. Parks Weaks.

Hostesses for the event were Mrs. L. M. McBride, Mrs. Kenneth Crews, Miss Mariana Weaks and Mrs. Weaks.

Miss Owens received the guests with her mother, Mrs. Shelton Owens, Mrs. Robert Brown, Sr., and Mrs. Emma Denney, of Clinton, mother and grandmother of the groom-elect.

Punch, cookies, mints and nuts were served from the dining table, overlaid with a white lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of greenery, featuring a miniature bride and groom.

About 100 guests called between three and four o'clock in the afternoon.

Pamela Sisson, Eddie Forsythe Wed August 11

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Sisson are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Pamela Diane, to Eddie A. Forsythe on August 11, 1972 at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray H. Wallace of Fulton, Kentucky.

The late afternoon ceremony of marked simplicity was conducted in the presence of the immediate family and a few close friends.

Reverend Larry Bruce pastor of the Union City Baptist Temple officiated.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. Buford Sisson all of Fulton.

The groom's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Alpha Cunningham of Dukedom, Tennessee and the late Mr. and Mrs. Ed Forsythe of Atwood, Tennessee.

The young couple left immediately on a short wedding trip and are now at home on Fulton, Route 5.

The bride and groom are both popular young students and plan to continue their education.

Mr. Forsythe is presently employed by Stanley Jones Mechanical Contractors Incorporated of Fulton, Kentucky.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Marilyn Parks, Rodney Chatman

Miss Marilyn Kay Parks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudell Parks of Murray, Kentucky, and Rodney Dewey Chatman, son of Mrs. Dewey Chatman and the late Mr. Chatman of Water Valley, were united in marriage at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, August 12, in the Sinking Spring Baptist Church near Murray.

The Reverend Danny Underwood, Methodist minister of Martin, Tennessee and Brother Bill Threet, minister of the Church of Christ, Dalton, Georgia, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was given by cousins of the bride, Mrs. Larry Phillips, organist, of Lewisburg, Tennessee, Mrs. Ronnie Elrod, Murfreesboro, Tennessee and Mrs. C. W. Patterson, Manchester, Tennessee, vocalist. Selections included "O Perfect Love," "Because," "More," "A Time for Us," "We've Only Just Begun," "For All We Know," "Liebestraum," "Melody of Love," and the traditional wedding march and recessional.

The couple pledged their vows and participated in a candle lighting ceremony before the altar which was decorated with ferns, rainbow-colored flowers and candelabras of gold, holding white candles. A white pedestal holding a Grecian urn filled with multicolored blossoms, stood at each side of the central candelabra. A gold spiral candelabra holding white tapers stood at each end of the altar. The pews were marked with bouquets of rainbow-colored flowers tied with white ribbon.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a formal gown of white satin and a full length skirt of floral pink, slightly full at the waist, fell gracefully over a pink silk taffeta foundation skirt. The round neckline was accented by tiny ruffles that graced the front of the blouse and ended at the waist.

The bride's attendants wore gowns of identical style. An empire waist of flesh silk organza and floor length skirts of floral pink, slightly full at the waist, fell gracefully over a pink silk taffeta foundation skirt. The round neckline was accented by tiny ruffles that graced the front of the blouse and ended at the waist.

The maid of honor and flower girl wore pink organza with the rainbow-tinted floral patterned underskirts. One attendant wore pale blue and the other wore orchid organza over the multi-colored floral skirts. Green belts of harmonizing shade completed the attendants' gowns.

Master Michael Ray Parks, served as his cousin's ring-bearer.

Fraternity brothers of the groom attended him, James E. Egbert, Princeton, was the best man, Timothy D. Woods, West Frankfort, Illinois and Brent Samuels, Clinton, were groomsmen.

Mrs. Charles Turnbow, cousin of the bride, and dressed in a multicolored floor-length chiffon gown, directed the wedding.

The bride's mother wore a shell pink street length dress that featured a round neck, high waist line with an inset belt decorated with silver beads and seed pearls. The sleeves were wrist length and trimmed like the belt. Her headpiece was a design of silk leaves that matched her dress. Her shoes and purse were pink, and her gloves were white.

The groom's mother wore an ivory lace street-length dress with harmonizing accessories. Each mother wore a glabella corsage.

Presiding at the registration table in the vestibule of the church and later at the reception were a cousin of the groom, Miss Becky Puckett, South Fulton and a cousin of the bride, Miss Stephanie Hill, Monroe, Louisiana. The table was covered by a white satin cloth. A silver bud vase held a cluster of blossoms, matching the decorations. A white feather pen was used to register guests.

RECEPTION

A reception following the wedding was held in the Murray Woman's Club House.

Serving at this occasion were Mrs. Carmon Parks, Mrs. Kent McCulston, Mrs. Michael W. Morgan, Miss Kathy Wheeler, Fulton, and Miss Karen Ford, Paducah.

The three-tiered scalloped wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom, was served from a small round table. Punch, coffee, nuts and small sandwiches were served from silver appointments on a long table. Both tables were covered in white satin with white satin ribbon bows attached at vantage points. A silver candelabra surrounded by the theme-colored flowers held white tapers and centered the main table.

James Lawrence, Murray, played the piano during the reception.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Chatman honeymooned in Birmingham, Alabama. For traveling Mrs. Chatman wore a two-piece aqua knit. The dress was sleeveless. The matching, tailored, full length coat was trimmed with self-covered buttons. A corsage of pink rosebuds, and white accessories completed her costume.

Mrs. Chatman is a 1971 graduate of Murray High School and is a sophomore at Murray State University. She is working toward a major in home economics and elementary education.

Mr. Chatman, a junior at Murray State University, is majoring in speech and business management.

Mr. and Mrs. Chatman are employed in the campus post office.

They are now residing at 1714-A Wells Boulevard, Murray.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mrs. Dewey Chatman was hostess at a rehearsal dinner given at 7 p.m. Friday, August 11, in the Murray Woman's Club House. Members of the wedding party were included. The bride and groom presented gifts to their attendants. Place cards indicated seats for twenty-five guests.

Dear Ann Landers: You be the judge. Our son insists that he not be denied the right to "be himself"—his father says, "You must learn to compromise if you're going to live in the real world." Who is right?

John walked the streets for three solid weeks looking for a job. He is 20, has decided not to go back to college (says it's a waste of time) and is a quiet boy with strong principles. John and his father have always seen things from a different point of view. I am sure John is not as radical as his father thinks he is, nor is his father as conservative as John seems to believe.

Tonight a friend of ours called to let us know that John had been in to see him about a job. Our friend told John that since he would be meeting the public he would have to trim his hair somewhat and get rid of his beard. John promptly let him know that he did not want the job if it meant submerging his personality and being something he wasn't.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is marrying a boy we do not know very well. His family lives in another city. The mother of the groom sent us the guest list yesterday. We were surprised to see the name of a young cousin who is an epileptic. We don't want to spoil the wedding by exposing our guests to the unpleasant experience of witnessing a fit. What can we do except tell the woman we don't want to take the chance?—On The Spot

Dear F and A: When a young man goes looking for a job he should accept the fact that he is not going to make the rules or call the signals. The burden of proof is on him—not the employer. An employer who does not want a young man with long hair and a beard will not look favorably on a fellow who says "ake it or leave it."

I realize there are laws against discrimination, but there are no laws against refusing to hire an applicant with a negative personality—and this is why John and others like him lose out.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently a column of yours created quite an argument. I refer to the one where you said it was in poor taste to print on an invitation to an anniversary party, "no gifts please."

Why
Can't things be the way they used to be?

Culver Pictures, Inc.

You know. When the Negro "knew his place."

When students stayed in the classroom.

When poverty was kept off page one.

Ah, the good old days.

But who's fooling whom? Was it really a better world? Or just a quieter one? A few years ago it was easy to hide from the evils around us.

To turn our backs and pretend it really wasn't so.

But God knows, it was. All that our modern communication system has done is bring it all out into the open. And about time.

The fact is, God has probably been much too patient with our world. "Love your neighbor," He told us long ago. Not enough of us were listening and that's what today's turmoil is all about.

And think about this: maybe—just maybe—

God put us here right now because we're the ones who can start setting things straight.

Miss Williamson Is The New Miss Kentucky RECC

Lovely Cynthia Pryse Williamson of Lexington, is the new Miss Kentucky Rural Electric, and drama. The 19-year-old, brown-eyed, blonde daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Williamson, Jr., represented Blue Grass RECC in the Miss Kentucky Rural Electric Beauty Pageant held in Louisville, August 22-23.

Miss Williamson was selected by the judges from a total of 21 participants in the Pageant. Each participant had been selected to compete in the State Pageant by a local beauty contest at her rural electric cooperative.

As the reigning Miss Kentucky Rural Electric, Miss Williamson will now represent the state in the National Miss Rural Electrification Beauty Pageant to be held in Dallas, Texas next February. An all-expense paid trip to Dallas for the national finals is one of the prizes Miss Williamson has won.

Other prizes awarded to her as winner of the State Pageant include a $300 scholarship to the school of her choice, the coveted winner's trophy, and an expense paid trip to Washington, D. C., next summer to participate in the national Rural Electric Youth Tour.

Miss Williamson ranks horseback riding, working with children, cooking and swimming as her favorite hobbies. As part of her extensive 4-H Club activities, she has shown horses

Ancient Indian settlement uncovered

Archaeologists have pow-wow at Louisville airport

The remains of ancient Indian village have been discovered at Louisville's Standiford Airport. Workmen, constructing a sound suppressor for Kentucky Air National Guard jets, uncovered bones, arrowheads and Indian artifacts. Dr. Joseph E. Granger, right, archaeologist at the University of Louisville, estimated the find could date back 3000 years. Once money is available, Dr. Granger said, teams of archaeologists will begin to uncover the entire settlement. At left, Air Guard Sergeant Norman Thomas examines the site, while the artifacts are shown below. The find is located just off one of the airport's main runways.

By Dave Thompson
State News Bureau

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The 123rd Tactical Reconnaissance Wing, attached to the Kentucky Air National Guard, had plans to build a sound suppressor for the RF-101 Voodoo jets near its Louisville headquarters but the construction work has been temporarily delayed.

Shortly after bulldozers and earth graders went to work at the construction site adjacent to Louisville's Standiford Field, workmen came upon the remains of an ancient Indian settlement.

The operators had just begun to skim the earth's surface for fill dirt when they noticed bits of bones, flints and other Indian artifacts.

Dr. Joe E. Granger, archaeologist at the University of Louisville, was immediately called in to examine the find. Terming the discovery "of national importance," Dr. Granger said it appears to be an Archaic Indian settlement possibly dating back 3000 years.

"We won't know how old the settlement is until radio-carbon tests are run on the artifacts," he said. "But I estimate it to be about 2500 B.C."

As soon as funds are available, a team of archaeologists will be sent to the area, just off one of the airport's main runways, to excavate the site.

"Presently we do not have the money to finance the entire excavation," said Dr. Granger. He has requested the Department of Defense to supply the funds (it would take about $8000) but has not yet been successful.

"My contention is that the Federal Antiquities Act of 1906 specifically states that no person shall destroy sites on lands owned or controlled by the federal government," he added. "We believe that, even though the land is leased from the Air Board, it is controlled by the federal government."

Dr. Granger said that if he is not successful in getting monies from a federal agency, he will request financial aid from the state.

A natural spring, located about 100 feet from the settlement, may have led the Indians into settling in the Standiford Field area.

"The Archaic people had a subsistence settlement system," said Dr. Granger, "whereby they moved to different locations in Jefferson County during each season."

"This site represents one of the last examples of this subsistence settlement system," he claimed, "because most of the other sites have been destroyed by housing and industrial developments."

Dr. Granger said there were between 300 and 400 such sites in Jefferson County alone before industrial and residential expansion.

Dr. Granger said the site was not discovered when the airport was being constructed "because of the natural spring."

"The air board would have been required to drain the spring and fill in the surrounding area. Instead, they moved the runway about 500 feet west," he said.

Since the site has been "destroyed of its originality," archaeologists say the only solution is excavation and preservation of the information which will be found.

"We will use salvage techniques," Dr. Granger added, "to preserve the maximum amount of information in materials which we consider to be sufficient to describe the activities once taking place."

The Paleo Indian, regarded as the earliest migratory hunters in North America, came into the continent between 20,000 and 10,000 years ago. The Archaic period began about 6500 years ago.

So far, Dr. Granger said the find has yielded organic remains, bones, shells, charcoal, fired-rock (broken in the process of heating), remnants of food and flint chips (the by-products of manufacturing flint artifacts).

"There definitely is a very deep deposit of materials," he said. "As we excavate further, possibly two to three feet, we should find a burial site and other information which will help describe their activities."

"But we don't expect to run across any surprises."

Bible College Sees All-Time Enrollment

Fall registration began Monday at Mayfield's Mid-Continent Bible College. Registration will be continued for the following two weeks.

Courses, this fall, range from elementary English to Greek. Music courses include basics through private piano lessons.

The Bible College, which is located on North 15th Street in Mayfield, Kentucky, features the full 128 hour curriculum with a major in Bible.

The Bible College is expecting an all time record enrollment of freshmen. The increase in number of beginning students, along with the larger number of upper classmen, will give the College an all time attendance high.

Some classes will have a limited enrollment. Students, in order to get what they must have, should register at the earliest possible time.

"We're not sure just why our enrollment is growing so rapidly as it is, but we're sure happy it is," a College spokesman said.

Letters To Editor

Dear Jo and Paul:

Now that I am finally getting settled at MSU, I have some time to write. I just want to thank you both for this summer.

Because of your help, I had the opportunities to make some money, learn about my favorite "subject," and meet a lot of wonderful people—all in one summer!

Working on the paper and writing for the Festival gave me more wonderful experiences than I (or many young people my age) had ever had.

You both were always patient and understanding of my ignorance about Fulton and about journalism. You were great teachers and I appreciate your infinite knowledge of journalism very much. I just want to thank you for passing some of it to me—I intend to make good use of what you taught me.

Tell all of my friends in Fulton hello for me—they were all so kind too.

I hope to visit Fulton soon to see you all again.

Thanks again,
Dona Martin

Notes and News From—

Haws Memorial

Friday will be September the first and also Mrs. Effie Cunningham's birthday.

Back to school means we lose our helpful and faithful teenage volunteers. We hope some of you women and men too will consider volunteering an hour or two a week and come out to help us. Your personality and willingness is ample talent. If you've never been out to Haws, why don't you drop by, visit, get acquainted and see if maybe you would like to do some volunteer work. It can be a valuable experience for the patients and you.

Next Sunday we will again look forward to the South Fulton Smith Street Church of Christ Choir at 4 p.m.

Again we want to thank the various ministers and churches for their faithful service to us on Sunday afternoons.

We had another pea shelling last week. With our capable shellers it certainly doesn't take long to shell a bushel. Some of those helping were Mr. Davis, Stovall, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Summerville, Mrs. Holland, Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Johnson.

Thursday morning we will look forward to having Barbara Mulenburg and her little Wes visit with us. She plans to bring us some flowers from her garden. Maybe we can talk her into giving us a demonstration on flower arranging.

Bridal Shower Compliments Mrs. Bruce

A bridal shower for Mrs. Thomas Bruce, the former Wanda Lee Elliott, was given in fellowship hall of the South Fulton Baptist Church on Tuesday, August 8. Hostesses were Mrs. Charles Brown, Mrs. Robert Ellis and Mrs. John Freeman.

Attractive arrangements of red, yellow and pink roses were placed on the table. Guests were greeted on arrival by the honoree. She was presented a lovely corsage by the hostess.

In the receiving line with the honoree were her mother, Mrs. Leroy Elliott, and the mother of the groom, Mrs. Lester Bruce.

Miss Judy Brown and Mrs. Gail Bruce served individual decorated cake, nuts and punch to the guests during the social hour.

Pictures were made during the evening. Approximately 70 people attended or sent gifts.

Recent Bride Honored With Shower

Mrs. Thomas Bruce, the former Wanda Lee Elliott, was the guest of honor for a lingerie shower held at the home of Miss Judy Brown on Covington Avenue in South Fulton on Thursday, August 10.

The hostess served a party plate and drinks to the guests. Those present and sending gifts were: Misses Jane Taylor, Gail Bruce, Trudy Goodwin, Judy Holmes, Karen Clark, Brenda Woods and Mesdames Linda Elliott Lamb, Carol Fulcher, Kay McNeely, Ann Faulkner, Mary Ellen Smith, Charles Brown, the honoree and the hostess.

After a lazy summer, school isn't all hard study, remember? There are old friends, field trips, recess, and carefree Hush Puppies' shoes!

Almost as good as barefoot, they're lots better looking. Styled like the big guys' and girls' in Breathin' Brushed Pigskin* and deep-tanned leathers. Tough to scuff. And down in their strong but tender hearts, a steel shank stands guard to protect growing feet.

When the bell rings, get back to Hush Puppies' shoes. They're the next best thing to barefoot!
